

Charles W. Moorman
Retired Chairman and Chief Executive Officer
Norfolk Southern Corporation
Three Commercial Place
Norfolk, Virginia 23510-2191

Wick Moorman, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Norfolk Southern Corporation, is a native of Hattiesburg, Miss., and a graduate of Georgia Tech and Harvard Business School. He started his railroad career as a co-op student in 1970, and early in his career worked in the maintenance of way and transportation departments, so he has firsthand knowledge of railroad operations.

Wick has served Norfolk Southern in numerous leadership capacities. He was assistant vice president stations, terminals and transportation planning; vice president personnel and labor relations; and vice president information technology. Before being named president of Norfolk Southern in 2004, Wick also served as president of Thoroughbred Technology and Telecommunications and as senior vice president of corporate planning and services. He was named president and CEO in 2005, chairman, president and CEO in 2006, and chairman and chief executive officer in June 2013. Wick retired from Norfolk Southern on December 31, 2015.

Wick serves on the boards of the Virginia Chapter of The Nature Conservancy, the Medical College Operating Board of the University of Virginia, the Hampton Roads Community Foundation, the Georgia Tech Foundation, and Chevron Corporation. He is a member of the American Society of Corporate Executives.

Wick and his wife, Bonnie, reside in Charlottesville, Virginia, and have two children.
